A look at the top 10 most-watched channels over the years and viewership trends in the lockdown reveals the power of free platforms and regional content

VANITA KOHLI-KHANDEKAR
NEW DELHI, 2 June

Kalanithi Maran's Sun TV is the most watched channel in India for the last three years. But DD National pushed it down to number two during the lockdown when it aired an old favourite, Ramayana.

Indore-based Enterr10's Dangal TV and Zee's Big Magic are among ten free-to-air channels that bring in a mammoth 63 per cent of all TV viewing in India.

That and more is what Broadcast Audience Research Council or BARC data, crunched for Business Standard shows. It showcases the quirks of the Indian TV viewer, emphasises the crazy diversity of this market and underlines why TV remains the largest medium in India.

At 836 million, TV reaches more people than newspapers (390 million) or broadband internet (625 million). Indians spent over four hours and fifteen minutes a day watching TV during the lockdown compared to three hours and forty minutes before Covid-19. At ₹78,700 crore or over 43 per cent it forms the single largest chunk of the ₹1,82,200 crore Indian media and entertainment industry.

What are the two big stories emerging from the data?

One, is the sheer size of the free-to-air market. Almost 63 per cent of all TV viewed in India came from ten free-to-air channels. Though it fell to about 53 per cent during the lockdown it represents the single largest PM: Growth will return...

He asked India Inc. to help products made in India become global so that employment could be generated and the import bill was reduced. "You have to set targets to achieve this goal," he urged industry.

In this regard, he said work on furniture, air-conditioners, and leather and footwear had been initiated. He pointed out that India imported 30 per cent of its requirements in air-conditioners.

The prime minister said while it was essential to save lives, it was also important to have economic stability. He pointed out that large segments of India's economy had been opened up for the private sector and it was being allowed in other areas too.

He said making the economy strong was one of the foremost priorities of his government, saying the decisions on immediate needs and also those which would benefit the economy in the long run were taken recently. While the poor have been given benefits, the government has also created an eco-system for encouraging private enterprises.

He said non-strategic sectors where the private sector was not allowed earlier were being opened up for India Inc. He cited opening up various segments of the coal sector such as commercial coal mining for the private sector.

He wondered why India imported a huge quantity of coal despite having the third-largest stock in the country.

cluster of television viewers. And Dangal TV is the most watched channel in this market of roughly 240 million viewers, largely in the Hindi belt. That is not all. Dangal TV is the third most watched channel across genres (news, films, GEC et al), languages and geographies in India.

For many who believe that TV is dead, this tells you a different story. One which blends well with the 316 million people the country's largest (free) OTT, YouTube

India, reaches. It made an estimated ₹2,000 crore in advertising last year. Add the ₹3,000 crore that free-to-air channels got and you have a large, rather under-served market. That explains the recent entry of ShemarooTV, a free-to-air channel.

Two, is the power of the Tamil market dominated by Sun TV and the Telugu one ruled by Star Maa. They are smaller than Hindi in audience size yet they make it on the list of the top ten channels in India. This is because against a national average of 66 per cent, cable penetration in the five Southern states is 95 per cent. And unlike in the Hindi belt there is no electricity problem. The sampling then is robust and data gets captured. Also this is a huge, entertainment loving audience. Note that roughly half the total TV viewing goes to languages other than Hindi - particularly Telugu, Tamil, Marathi and Bangla.

A sweet aside? Normally kids' channels rarely feature in the top ten. But Nickelodeon, a kids channels had jumped to number 9, thanks to the hours of TV that kids are watching during the lockdown.

dent, equity technical research at Kotak Securities.

In a note, Kapil Gupta, chief economist at Edelweiss Institutional Equities said ratings actions weren't big drivers for the market. "Ratings actions have had a muted impact on interest rates and currency beyond the immediate term. Perhaps, markets tend to adjust real-time to the evolving macroeconomic and debt dynamics. Trends in growth, credit cycle, direction of monetary policy, and US Fed's stance are far bigger drivers of bond yields and exchange rate than a rating action," he said.

IndiGo posts ₹1,289 cr pre-tax loss

This was due to a surge in cost amid tepid revenue growth. Loss at the net level stood at ₹870 crore as compared to ₹596 crore profit in the year-ago quarter.

The company's consolidated income rose 4.5 per cent year-on-year to ₹8,635 crore for the March quarter, while costs soared by nearly a third to ₹9,924 crore.

Among the many steps that will help the airline generate savings include cost renegotiation with suppliers and vendors, deferment of supplementary lease rentals to lessors and restructuring employee cost.

“We have prided our self on a strong balance sheet. Given the need to preserve cash, we will not pay any dividend this year and the above steps will help to generate more liquidity," Dutta said. "We have approached all our suppliers and vendors to reduce the purchase service cost and I should tell you that we have already successfully renegotiated many of those," he added.

Advance ruling rejects Tiger Global...

The judicial body observed that “the head and brain of the companies and consequently their control and management was situated not in Mauritius but outside in US”.

Under the Income-tax Act, a foreign company or the Indian taxpayer can approach the AAR and obtain a ruling on the taxability of the proposed transaction in India. The AAR ruling said there was no FDI made by the applicant companies in India and, therefore, there could not be any question of participation in investment. Since the applicants had made investment in shares of Flipkart, a Singapore company, the immediate investment destination was in Singapore and not in India, it said.

The AAR further said the applicants failed on other yardsticks viz. the period of business operation in India, the generation of tax revenue in India, timing of exit, and continuity of business on such exit. "In the absence of any strategic FDI in India, there was neither any business operation in India nor they ever generated any taxable revenue in India. So one can only conclude that the arrangement was a pre-ordained transaction which was created for tax avoidance purpose," it noted.
